

Some traditional subjects are becoming less important in today's technology and business-oriented world. Universities should therefore focus on subjects such as engineering which will have the maximum economic impact. To what extent do you agree or disagree with this statement?

Answer:

I agree with this statement 70%. I think universities should focus on subjects like engineering, because it will help us develop our creativity, thinking, logic. It is one of the factors that greatly affect the development of the economy.
